

Hi Saturday Family Art Clubbers,

Don't forget to share your creations with us on our Ty Pawb face book page as we love to see what you've all been making at home! We would also like to exhibit some of your artworks made using any of our family art club download activities as part of a new exhibition at Ty Pawb in October called 'Family Art Club At Home', so send us your photos of what you have created via Facebook.

Ellie

For Family Art Club each week we will be selecting one of the creations you post online as a lucky dip chosen at random. The lucky winner will receive an art pack with art materials inside, to be collected from us at Ty Pawb when we reopen.

This week's activity is designed by Ellie

Animal Portrait Bunting

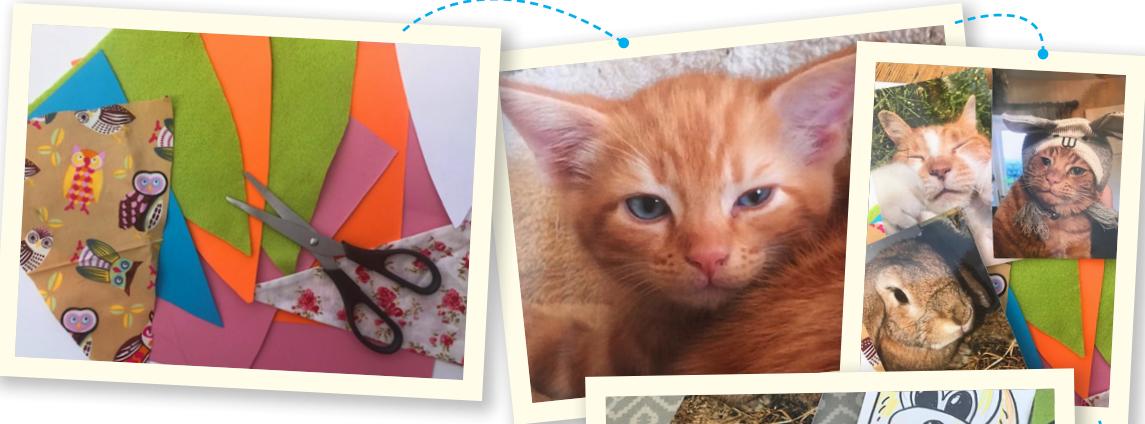

This project follows on from last week's theme of Isolation Portraits of your friends and family. Everybody loves animals and this is a celebration of animals you love!

Your challenge is to make a series of animal portrait faces using pens, pencils, pastels or paints on paper and design some animal bunting to hang in your room.

Find images in books, magazines or online of your favourite animals to copy your portraits. You could even draw your pet if you have one: your cat, dog,

Materials:

- Sheets of white drawing paper
- Photos of animals, pets / magazine images
- Felt pens / fine liners
- crayons/pastels
- watercolour paint and brush
- coloured pencils
- Glue stick/ PVA/ Tape
- Coloured card or fabric pieces
- Ribbon / string

Animal Portrait Bunting

hamster, fish or a garden bird, its up to you.

Create a doodle, sketch, painting of an animal. look at the shape of the face, ears, the texture of the fur and its eyes, try and capture their character.

Cut out your portraits and stick each one on a triangle shape piece of card, or fabric using glue.

Add a piece of string or ribbon at the top of each triangle and fold over secure with glue or tape to create a length of bunting. It's now ready to hang in your room.

There is no limit to the amount of faces you create and get your parents and family to have a go too, you can share the project together. Have fun!

Post your image onto our facebook page. Please tell your friends, pass it on and share our social media posts!
